STORY
False Admirations

Once upon a time, there was a crow who was very hungry and wanted to have food. He found a piece of cheese from somewhere and picked it up. He flied to a tree and sat there to eat the piece properly. A fox was roaming around and was too very hungry. She was very clever. She saw the crow eating cheese piece and she wanted to eat that. She thought of an idea and started to play with the crow. She started praising the crow by saying that he has a voice of heaven and his voice is so soothing and relaxing and great. She started flattering the crow.

She asked the crow to once sing a song for her. The crow was very pleased. He opened his mouth to sing and suddenly the piece of cheese fell from his mouth to the ground. It was the fox's trick to take food from the crow. The fox picked up the piece if cheese and she ran away.

Moral: Beware of flattery.
